

To every thing there is a season and a time to every purpose under the heavens.

For every man according to his light and conviction there exists a certain duty to society, be it humble or elevated, evinced in words or in ^{deeds} acts, if after zealous watch set on motive and strict diligence in probing the verity and weighing the worth of what one may have to say, the conviction still abides that it ought to be said.

with such care and under such impression I tender to you what follows it has ever been my object to clothe in the best manner possible the ideas sought to be conveyed by so doing we are cultivating thought itself while reviewing the social condition of any people we are apt to lean to the extreme and dwell extensively on every part that tends to demoralize it is equally true and ought to become a penal law that those holding executive power and legislative authority should be ^{and moral suasion such as Dr. of divinity and of physic} placed under severe restrictions there is ^{Dr. of physic} ^{Dr. of physics} who are conversant with the human system secretly employ their skill in the manufacture of instrument for licentious purposes and thus destroy the ^{possibility of} inception and can be found on sale in almost every drug store in the principle cities of the east these are sought after by the most fashionable and aristocratic ^{of the land} it is equally true that those holding ^{and ought to turn a penal law} executive power and legislative authority and moral suasion like the roman senator should be held under severe restrictions while medical men lend their skills in the manufacture of instruments of licentiousness and can be found on sale in almost every drug store in the principle cities of the east
