

NYE'S

Attended by the friends who had known him throughout his long residence in Ogden, the funeral services for A. J. Proudfoot were held Tuesday afternoon at the residence, 1949 Washington avenue. There were numerous beautiful floral tributes, showing the respect and love in which he was held.

The opening prayer was by Elshout, W. D. Van Dyke and Rev. Arthur Wittenberger delivered an eloquent funeral sermon. Vocal selections were given by Gus Saunders and Mrs. Henry Stevens.

The pall bearers were Fred M. Nye, Lawrence Taylor, George Foley, Arthur Edson, W. H. Williams and Dr. A. W. Watson.

Mr. Proudfoot was born in Edinburgh, Pa., but came to Ogden 20 years ago, where he has been a prominent business man. While a young man he was intimately acquainted with General Sherman, acting as his orderly for three years during the Civil war.

Mr. Proudfoot was a man of high character. He harbored no hatreds and never indulged in mean gossip but always spoke good of those he knew. He was a home man, thoroughly devoted to his family. He will be missed, for he was one of the most substantial business men of this community.

IN STREETS

Following the recent agitation against the dumping of garbage upon vacant lots throughout the city, the board of health has taken up the proposition of enlarging the crematory west of the city to include an incinerating plant where all burnable rubbish may be disposed of quickly and cleanly.

Sanitary Inspector George Shorten states that the old furnace at the plant could be enlarged sufficiently for the purpose, but that at the present time it is not in condition for that work. "A good fire in the furnace would burn the entire plant," said the inspector today.

The proposition has been put up to the city commissioners who will probably take action.

The inspector is not pleased with the action of employees of the park commission in burning rubbish on Hudson avenue west of the city hall. He declared that such an act conflicts with the city ordinances and is punishable by a fine.

The pile of tin cans and ashes left after the fire was still heaped up on the street at noon today.

By the score of 16 to 3, Ozden High school defeated the School for the Deaf on the latter diamond yesterday afternoon before a crowd of "buses" from both schools. The defeated team opened in good style and one of the three runs made was a homer by Jones. Ellis pitched for the High and did good work.

Weber academy defeated the State Industrial school ball team by the close score of 2 to 1. The game was exciting and the fans started to sing "Egbert and Herbert" were the batterers for Weber and Scott and Williams did the honors for the Industrial school.

That Is What Supt. Mills Says Beat the Bond Election For a Gym—The Increased $25 Paid By the State of Utah For Each Ogden High School Student Would More Than Pay the Interest on the Bonds—Mr. Mills Shows How the Taxes Will Be Increased By Not Having a Gymnasium For the People of Ogden—An Interview Worth Reading

Yesterday a Standard reporter met Superintendent John M. Mills of the Ogden City schools, and noting that the usually pleasant smile was missing, said "Superintendent, tell us who it was that lost the bond issue for the Ogden gymnasium."

"Why," said the Superintendent, "it was the small property owner who voted against the bond issue." He said:

"By the way, you Standard people started the other day that the state would the Ogden board of education $15 for each high school student in Ogden. You were just $10 too low on that. Our board of education has received $21,000 for the past two years from the state, or $25 for each student. The Ogden high school undoubtedly will lose some students on account of not having a gymnasium, and we will fail to get other students who have never been with us in the past. I figure that the high school next year will lose fully two hundred students on account of having no gymnasium. I figure we will lose fully one hundred of our present students, and that another hundred students who would come to us, if we had a gymnasium will not come, which will cause the Ogden board of education to lose $5000 per year, which we would get from the state if we had the gymnasium. The interest on the $75,000 bonds would amount to just a little over half that, and I have been thinking that the small property holder actually has been voting against his own best interests. Whether we have two hundred pupils more or less in the high school, the expenses of running the high school will be just the same. Under the laws of the state of Utah, Ogden is entitled to be paid by the state approximately $25 for each student.

"How is the small property holder to get any benefit by paying $500,000 per year, which we would get from the state, when it would have cost only about $3000 in interest had they voted for the bonds.

"That is not all. If we had the gymnasium, we would draw additional students from outside and we would get still more money from the state. There could have a couple hundred more students in the high school without any additional expense. Again it has been told around that we could not increase the taxes. That is a mistake. A couple of years ago the board of education was up to the tax limit, but during the last two years the taxes have been reduced almost one mill, or, to be exact, seven-tenths of one mill. The board could restore this tax and raise $10,000 a year in taxes and build a gymnasium by piece meal, and I believe the gymnasium will have to be built through it. It may be after Ogden loses her high school prestige, and after having paid the deficiency for a year or two."

"Continuing, Mr. Mills said: "I believe if the small property holders could understand just exactly what it means in dollars and cents to vote a bond issue and build the gymnasium, they would themselves petition the board for a new election."

"Of course," said Mr. Mills, "as superintendent of the school, I must abide by the result of the election. Having been turned down, it would not look well for us to ask for a second election, yet I feel that the people did not understand this bond election or they would have voted for it. The new law, which gives the Ogden board of education $25 for each student in the high school, will draw enough pupils to the high school so that the state of Utah would pay the interest on our $75,000 bond in interest of the people of Ogden paying it. Then again, the board of education had decided to have the gymnasium open in the evenings to make it the boys and girls' club room. That would have been a great benefit to our young people, who have no place to go, and alone should have carried the bonds.

"I am sure," said the superintendent, "that the people could not have understood what the gymnastics would have meant for Ogden. I also feel that the newspapers, and I include both of the Ogden newspapers when I say that, did not explain the matter to the public.

Both newspapers were silent on the question which of itself might have caused many to hesitate in voting and even some to vote against it. I would like to have the two newspapers investigate this question and reach a conclusion as to whether or not it is advisable and beneficial as well as profitable for Ogden City to have a gymnasium for the High school and the children generally in the city.

Superintendent invites entries to the following interview with Mr. Mills: As Mr. Mills says, Ogden receives from the state $25 for each Ogden High school, and the increase and retention of students, if a gymnasium is built, would pay the interest on the bonds, then The Standard would willingly sign a petition for a new election.

If the board of education will pass resolutions to the effect that the people of Ogden shall have the "gym" for a boys' and girls' club, when used by the schools, that of course will win many votes. Suppose Mr. Mills calls a meeting at Labor hall, giving a week's notice, just to see what such meeting would develop. Our recollection is that the former meetings were held in the high school buildings here on a few hours' notice by telephone and the small property holder was not present. The former action in calling the election was rather hasty and the promise for the one of the "gym" by the public was not put in such form to convince anybody that it would become a boys and girls' club. We suggest to Mr. Mills that he take the small property holder, of which you are one, into his confidence. If you can show him that the additional $25 for each student, to be paid by the note, will help pay the interest on the bonds, then The Standard will feel quite safe in saying Ogden will have a "gym" and a big one, too.

If the voluntarily written words of grateful people, living in all parts of the country, praising Eckman's Alternative, a remedy for the treatment of coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles, are to be believed, this medicine is certainly doing a vast amount of good for such sufferers. This is a sample taken from many.

"Gentlemen: About seven years ago I was attacked with Tuberculosis. I coughed unceasingly, could not sleep nor eat, even could not speak out loud and could do no work. I had three hemorrhages, raised blood most of the time and suffered with night sweats, fever and chills. A specialist of Columbia, Ohio, pronounced my case hopeless.

"Nearly five years ago I heard of your Alternative and procured some at once, with the result that I soon found myself restored to health. I considered your medicine, if faithfully taken, a most excellent remedy. Mother Superior permits this testimonial."

James Bradley was hungry yesterday afternoon when he arrived in the city and not having any money sought out a suitable person to "strike" for a dime or more. In the vicinity of the Chamberlayne depot he saw Assistant City Attorney John Heywood who appeared "easy."

Appearances sometimes are deceiving as Bradley found, for when he asked for the price of a meal, he was directed to the police station for his request and Patrolman Jerry Keliher was pointed out as guide.

In police court this morning, Bradley said that he had not been abusive and when asked if that was because the city attorney is a tall man, he said that it would have made no difference if he had been "the short man."

The city attorney did not wish to press the case and, as the fellow declared he would go right to work, his sentence was suspended.

The case of Louis Olsen, charged with permitting offensive garbage to accumulate on his property, was completed today, but Judge Reeder deferred his would not pass sentence until Saturday and in the meantime would pay a visit to the property to determine whether the garbage is being covered.

It developed that the complainant witness and Olsen had quarreled, and the complaint against Olsen followed. The defendant charged that the complainant had directed all inoffensive garbage to his own land and the fill was ordered on Olsen's property.

Harry Lilly, charged with trespass, was given a sentence of 45 days. Although the man told a straightforward story, the judge held that his behavior found in the Troy laundry office after closing hours was sufficiently serious to warrant a jail sentence.

The date for the hearing of Dykman, charged with disturbing the peace, was set for Tuesday, March 13.
