Man Cuts Hand On Hotel Tap

Carroll B. Fowler, 40, of Arlington, Va., suffered a severely lacerated hand early today when he attempted to turn a water tap in a local hotel. Attendants at the Dee hospital, where the injured man was taken, said the cut reached tendons.

City Maps Action To Halt Firing In West Vicinity

City commissioners today agreed to take steps to stop the indiscriminate firing of guns in the vicinity of west Thirty-third street after J. H. Toomer, who resides in that neighborhood, reported today a bullet from one of the guns struck his home. Toomer also reported some of his livestock have been killed. Commissioner Tom East reported about three years ago the city erected signs forbidding the firing of guns in the area and that the signs were shot down the first night.

Arraignment Set In Morals Case

Jeanette Lewis, 24, Jane Doe Dark, 28, and Tommy Moore, 29, 225 1/2 Twenty-fifth, who were arrested Monday night on morals charges, are to be arraigned in city court Friday July 11, according to Police Chief Maurice J. Schoof. Jeanette Lewis was arrested on warrants charging prostitution on four different offenses. She was released under $300 bail. Jane Doe Dark is facing two charges of "keeping and managing and caring for a house of prostitution." Her bail was set at $300. Tommy Moore was arrested on two warrants charging "unlawfully acting as a procurer." His bail was set at $300. Police records disclose that the three defendants were arrested on two previous occasions in recent weeks on similar charges and their trials were set for the first week in September.

Car Building Program of U.P. Speeded

OMAHA, Neb.—A car building program now in full swing will add 4500 cars to Union Pacific railroad's fleet of freight forwarders. To this total can be added 2000 gondola cars which the railroad will purchase from the General American Transportation Corp. of Chicago and 1000 fifty-ton box cars ordered from American Car & Foundry at St. Louis. Out of the 7500-car total, 2500 box cars will be completed in October and the remaining will be ready for service early next year. The new car building program with equipment purchases will cost approximately $43,800,000 and require the hiring of 725 additional men at the railroad's shops at Omaha and Grand Island Neb., and Denver, Colo. where the assembly lines are in action. At Omaha 2500 fifty-ton box cars are being built with another 1000 of the same type being constructed at Grand Island. Five hundred double-deck stock cars and 50 flat cars are under construction at Denver. This is the first car building program undertaken by the railroad in ten years. The decision to make use of the railroad facilities in the construction was motivated partially by the desire to "assist the economy of the territory which the railroad serves," according to A. E. Stoddard, president of Union Pacific.

Freight Car Output in High Gear

Union Pacific railroad's new car building program is in high gear, Omaha officials report, with construction of freight cars as shown in the above photographs, being speeded. Upper photo shows the head of the assembly line where underframes are placed in the jig in foreground and draft gear, brake cylinder, air reservoir and valves are attached. Ends and sides are then put in place and the cars head for the shops (see lower photo) where the cars receive brake piping and fittings, steps and ladders.

Resident Desires Garden Plot Kept

A request by H. D. Williams, 555 Seventh, that he be permitted to retain a rock garden he constructed 25 years ago, in front of his house and extending to approximately where curb and gutter would be located, was referred to City Commissioner William Stowe. According to Commissioner Stowe, main objection to the garden apparently is the fact that a neighbor is required to make a wide swing in the street in order to get into his private driveway. Williams reported he has removed those rocks which make it difficult for the neighbor to get entrance to his property. Following complaints about the obstruction, Mr. Williams said he was notified the garden is in violation of a city ordinance.

County Studies Details for Subdivision

Revised tentative sub-division plan for the development of 54 acres of property on Fortieth St. near the new Weber college campus above Harrison, was studied Monday by members of the Weber county planning commission. Howard Widdison, planning commission chairman, said approval of the plan was dependent on the dedication of access roads to the county. The commission recommended that the approval be delayed until such time as surrounding property owners dedicate the roads. The development will provide 90 building lots. Members also discussed cooperative work being carried on with South Ogden, Riverdale, Pleasant View and Roy in regards to zoning, planning and developing problems. Odeal C. Kirk, president of the Pleasant View town board reported to the commission that the final shipment of uniform street numbering signs had been received. They were to be erected immediately, he said. It was also announced that Rulon Jenkins, member of the board, would attend the national conference of the National Society of Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 13 to 16. Director Tucker will also attend.

City Recommends Date for Party

A request by Van Evans, president of Ogden city employees association, for permission of city commissioners to maintain a skeleton crew on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 16, at which time the association's annual party has been scheduled, was referred back to the president with a request the date of the affair be changed to a Saturday afternoon. Members of the commission expressed themselves as being of the opinion such a party is for all employees and the maintenance of skeleton crews on Wednesday would automatically make it impossible for some workers to attend. Most city offices are closed Saturday afternoon. The party was scheduled to be held at Patio resort, near Eden.

Reunion Set by Belnap Family

Reunion of the Gilbert Belnap family organization will be held Saturday, Aug. 12 at the L. D. S. Twenty-first ward, 1042 Twenty-first. The gathering will commemorate the arrival of the Gilbert Belnaps in Ogden one hundred years ago. Activities will begin with a luncheon period from noon until two p. m. This will be followed by a program, business meeting and sports. A historical portrayal of the life of Gilbert Belnap at seven-thirty p. m. will conclude the day's activities. A centennial book published in his memory will be available at the reunion. Featured in the book will be a copy of his "Daily Journal."
