

SNAPPY AGGRESSOR soldiers with crested helmets pass in review. They wear distinctive uniforms, follow a special drill manual.

TOTALITARIAN behavior is carried through strategy meeting. Trigon troop commander and staff give salute to "The Leader."

SMOOTH-TALKING "Sonia Trigonia" is the Trigons' version of Axis Sally, tries to persuade American troops to surrender.

U.S. ARMY FIGHTS 'THE ENEMY WITHIN'

The strangely dressed soldiers in these pictures, wearing Roman-type helmets and upside-down chevrons, aren't those of an actual country. But they regularly combat Army troops during maneuvers all over the United States. Known officially as the Aggressors, but often referred to as Trigons, these troops speak Esperanto and represent an imaginary nation ruled by the dictator of the Circle Trigon political party. The idea of using such special troops to introduce realism into training was born in 1946 at the U.S. Army Aggressor Center at Fort Riley, Kan. (where these pictures were taken). The Aggressors, or Trigons, use special identification cards and distribute propaganda, as well as "fighting" the Americans. They even carry safe-conduct passes to hand out to U.S. soldiers who may wish to surrender.

Council Approves dered when Dean H. Allen, 40, Huntsville, did not appear in City Adding 'Pioneer'

Council. From now on, the park will be known as the 4th Street Pioneer Park.

The change was made at the request of Gordon Belnap, chairman of the "All Faces West" committee. Mr. Belnap told the council the pageant will be held in this location from now on, and the committee also has plans to establish a pioneer museum in the park.

He had asked that the name be shortened to "Pioneer Park" for brevity purposes but the council members decided that the 4th Street designation would aid people in locating the park.

WAITING ROOM GOES TO PLANE

Newest device for passenger convenience at airports is the mobile lounge. The 38-ton bus is now in service at Washington's Dulles International Airport. It looks like a well-appointed airport waiting room, but actually it's the interior of the mobile lounge.
