

Grade Achievers Honored at Mount Ogden

Holiday Mailers Can Find Stamps in Retail Outlets

Due to the anticipated record volume of holiday mail this season, postal officials are providing stamp outlets at local retailers to diminish long lines at post office branches.

Postmaster Warren Phillips said "the impact of greatly increased mail volumes generated by the 15-state United Parcel strike" has doubled parcel volume nationwide.

He again urged early mailing of packages and greeting cards and said proper addressing will be delivered within a few days.

office will help cut down on long waiting lines.

Postage stamps may be purchased at such local stores as Sears, Gibson's, ZCMI, Drug King, Stop 'N Shop, K-Mart, Wangsgards, Bon Marche and the House of Hallmark.

The "Stamps by Mail" program will also go into effect again this season with order forms available in local post office lobbies.

Stamps may be paid for by personal check in the mail and will be delivered within a few days.

Let's get a bit more light on the subject!

Hi, I'm Reddy Kilowatt, your friend at Utah Power. Each week, this column is devoted to common questions and suggestions we receive from our customers. You are warmly invited to participate. Questions and suggestions regarding electricity, your electric service, or energy conservation are welcome.

Q. Does a microwave oven use less electricity than a conventional electric oven?

A. There is no simple answer here. An electricity consumption comparison between the conventional and microwave ovens depends entirely on the answer to the question, "What's cooking?" Tests have shown that in cooking small to medium quantities of concentrated foods such as meats, potatoes, desserts (particularly puddings and sauces), and in heating TV dinners, the microwave oven offers the greatest savings. Yet, when cooking corn, broccoli, and similar vegetables, the conventional electric surface units are more economical. Energy-saving is greatest when using the microwave and the conventional ovens in combination, rather than one method at the exclusion of another.

Q. Where should I put my study lamp for the greatest amount of light from the least wattage?

A. Study lamps should be placed so as to avoid shadows and reflected glare and, normally, a 150-watt bulb is recommended for reading. On a desk, ideal placement is approximately 12 inches from the front of the desk, 15 inches to the right or left of center (to the left if you are right-handed, to the right if you are left-handed), with the bottom shade 15 inches from the desk surface. You should know, however, that the amount of light given off by a lamp bulb is measured in lumens, not watts. Wattage is the amount of electricity the bulb uses. Reddy recommends that you look on the carton for both lumen ratings and estimated life of the bulb (in hours).

Address your questions or suggestions to Reddy Kilowatt, P.O. Box 899, Salt Lake City, Utah 84110. Due to space limitations, all questions and suggestions cannot be printed in this column, but each will be answered.
