About 64 miles out of London, where you follow the quaint old Bath Coach Road, you will arrive at the village of Hungerford, the ancient seat of the Hungerford Family, in Pastoral, Berkshire, and extending into Wiltshire. Hungerford is well off the well traveled tourist's routes, but it holds more than passing interests to the traveler, who likes to linger long in quaint by-ways of the world, studying old customs of olden days, where they are still observed in all the simple ingenuousness. Such a traveler would delight in the observance of Hock Day. The Holiday occurs the Thursday, Easter Week. Hungerford is also a favorite Hunting Center. John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, presented to the citizens the Manorial rights including Kennit and other streams in the locality, which are numerous, and the records are carefully preserved in the town hall. One of their town houses was located next to Buckingham Palace, on the Thames River.

Lucy Hungerford, daughter and co-heiress of Sir Walter Hungerford, and widow of Sir John, son of Nicholas St. John and Elizabeth Blount, his wife, married Sir Anthony Hungerford (the son of her Fifth cousin Anthony Hungerford, Sr.), born 1564; died 1627, of Black Bourton or Bourton Inges, who by his wife Lucy had

Children:

1. SIR EDWARD HUNGERFORD, K. B., first son of Cadenham, born 1596; died 1648, a spendthrift.
2. SARAH HUNGERFORD, married Sir John Carew.
3. ANNE HUNGERFORD, of Boston, married John Leigh (or Lee, tradition—General Lee Family). They had children: 1. John. 2. A dau., m. — Patch. 3. Sarah, m. — Hunkins. 4. Mary, m. — Tuttle. 5. Ann, d. Sept. 28, 1691, unnm.
4. SIR THOMAS HUNGERFORD, born 1602; died 1663, from England to Hartford, Conn., 1638; later at New London. (The Comp. Am. Gen., Vol. III, p. 668). He was twice married, (1) —; (2) about 1658, to Hannah Willey, daughter of Isaac and Joanna Willey of New London. Service: "History of New London," by Caulkins, 1860, page 68—Thomas Hungerford and Jonathan Brewster of the Cape Ann Party, 1650, on the pen., where the 1st Trading Post stood.

After the death of Mr. Hungerford, she married Peter Blackford, of New London. He died Sept., 1671.

Mr. Hungerford, when a boy of 14 at Farnham, Que., became acquainted with the railway locomotive; metaphorically speaking, he boarded it then and made it carry him from the lathe of the machinist's apprentice, to the chair of vice-president of the Grand Division of the Canadian National Railways, the world's greatest railway. Mr. Hungerford is a man of quick action who never seems to be in a hurry. He has a wide circle of friends in the railway world, friends that he made while mastering his various jobs in the mechanical department at important railway points clear across the country. First as a machinist's apprentice and then in the mechanical department of the Canadian Northern Railroad of the Western Lines. At the end of five years the mechanical line of the road was in first-class shape and S. J. Hungerford's jurisdiction was extended over the Eastern Lines of the system. In 1915, when a vacancy occurred in the management of the Eastern Lines of the Canadian Northern, Mr. Hungerford was appointed vice-president of operating and maintenance activities. On Feb. 20, 1924, the three Grand Divisions of the Atlantic, Eastern and West Regions consolidated and Mr. Hungerford was made vice-president in charge of operations and maintenance. After the roads were consolidated the name was changed to Canadian National Railways. Those who know Mr. Hungerford well, have complete confidence in his capacity. He is regarded as one of those men, who with the president will set new standards of devotion to duty and loyalty to employers; in this case the general public of Canada. In 1932 Mr. Hungerford was made President of Central Vermont and Canadian National Railroads.

(Copied from "Montreal Star.")

Mr. Hungerford's experience has ranged more than 45 years from the humble position of machinist apprentice, to acting President of the Canadian National Railways, the largest railway system in the world. He was born in Farnham, less than a score of miles North of the Vermont border, 61 years ago. He entered railroading at Farnham, Que. in 1886. Mr. Hungerford has long been recognized as one of the foremost Railway Operating Executives of the Continent, and his experience has included service in some of the largest Railway Systems in Canada and the United States. As Vice-President in charge of Operations and Construction of the Canadian National subsequent to the period of the disastrous Vermont floods in 1927, he played a prominent role in the reconstruction of the flood-torn Central Vermont Railway Lines.
