

be now in possession of the bona fide price, where any has been given) which such persons may have paid on purchasing any of the said lands, rights, or properties since the confiscation.

And it is agreed that all persons who have any interest in confiscated lands, either by debts, marriage settlements, or otherwise, shall meet with no lawful impediment in the prosecution of their just rights.

Art. VI. That there shall be no future confiscations made, nor any prosecutions commenced against any person or persons for, or by reason of the part which he or they may have taken in the present war; and that no person shall, on that account, suffer any future loss or damage, either in his person, liberty or property; and that those who may be in confinement on such charges, at the time of the ratification of the Treaty in America, shall be immediately set at liberty, and the prosecution so commenced be discontinued.

VII. There shall be a firm and perpetual peace between his Britannic Majesty and the said States, and between the subjects of the one, and the citizens of the other; wherefore all hostilities both by sea and land shall from henceforth cease; all prisoners on both sides shall be set at liberty, and his Britannic Majesty shall, with all convenient speed, and without causing any destruction, or carrying away any negroes, or other property of the American inhabitants, withdraw all his armies, garrisons and fleets from the said United States, and from every post, place and harbour, within the same, leaving in all fortifications the American artillery that may be therein; and shall also order and cause all archives, records, deeds, and papers belonging to any of the said States, or their citizens, which in the course of the war may have fallen into the hands of his officers, to be forthwith restored and delivered to the proper State and persons to whom they belong.

Art. VIII. The navigation of the river Mississippi, from its source to the ocean, shall forever remain free and open, to the subjects of Great-Britain; and the citizens of the United States.

Art. IX. In case it should so happen that any place or territory belonging to Great-Britain, or to the United States, should have been conquered by the arms of either from the other, before the arrival of the said provisional articles in America, it is agreed that the same shall be restored without difficulty, and without requiring any compensation.

Art. X. The solemn ratifications of the present treaty, expedited, in good and due form, shall be exchanged between the contracting parties, in the space of six months, or sooner, if possible, to be computed from the day of the signature of the present treaty. In witness whereof we the undersigned, their ministers plenipotentiary, have in their name, and in virtue of our full powers, signed with our hands the present definitive treaty, and caused the seals of our arms to be affixed thereto.

Done at Paris, this 3d day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty three.

ISAAC TICHENOR, Clerk
 Bennington, Dec. 9, 1783

STATE of VERMONT

Whereas the Legislature in their sessions in Windsor, April 1782, did grant a tax of ten shillings on each hundred acres land in towns of Ferrisburgh, Grassy, Lemington, Milford, Tunbridge, Verhur, Brunswick and Lewis. And whereas the Treasurer did issue his warrant to the sheriff (being then Sheriff of the county of Orange,) to collect such tax: These are therefore to warn the proprietors or land owners, of the aforesaid towns, who have not paid their tax granted as aforesaid, to pay the same or so much of their lands will be sold at Public Vendue, at the dwelling house of the subscriber in Newbury on the first Tuesday of February next at ten o'clock A. M. as to pay said tax, together with all legal cost and thereon.

ROBERT JOHNSTON, Sheriff
 Newbury, November 7th, 1783.

N. B. There remains unpaid, of the aforesaid taxes, about seven hundred pounds and as most of said lands are owned out of the State, it is probable considerable of them will be sold at Vendue, unless the Printers in neighbouring States will insert advertisement in their useful papers.

This States notes, due bills, &c. will be received in payment.

THE REVISED LAWS of this State will be ready for sale to-morrow, at the Printing Office.
