

Notes from Salt Lake.

SALT LAKE, May 29.

There was a lively discussion in the Salt Lake council on Tuesday night, over the request of a committee for the city to appropriate $2,500 for a Fourth of July celebration. Finally, on the statement of the city attorney, that such an appropriation would be unlawful, the matter was referred though several members of the council wanted to make the appropriation regardless of the law.

James Gorman who burglarized a store in Park City last winter, was sentenced yesterday to two years in the penitentiary.

Another proposition to buy the Salt Lake City waterworks and supply was made on Tuesday evening, by the Utah Water Company and was referred to a committee.

The following telegram was read in the last city council meeting:

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 27, 1890.

City Council:

Hear street in front of my residence is being graded down six feet. Appeal to you to stop the consummation of this outrage.

BASKIN.

The "outrage," however, had been consummated, and the telegram was filed.

The trial of J. M. Smith, charged with libeling Capt. J. R. Middlemiss, commenced in the district court yesterday afternoon.

The city treasurer sent in the following to the city council on Tuesday evening. It was promptly tabled:

"I respectfully request your honorable body to institute a spring clearing process in your council room and that you remove from the walls some of the present decorations, which, in my judgment, are not in keeping with the present surroundings.

The trial of Dr. J. J. West, for polygamy, adultery and larceny, was set for to-day, but will probably be continued till the next term of court.

$300 per month is what Salt Lake is paying to each member of an 'expert water commission. This salary business is the liveliest experience Salt Lake has.
