Republican Convention Will Be Held Sept. 29

County Leaders Also Set Primaries Date; Young Voters Organize; Straup and Woolley Assail Democrats

Weber county Republicans will nominate candidates for county offices at a convention to be held September 29, and will name delegates to this convention at primaries September 25.

The central committee fixed these dates Tuesday night at a party outing at the Wright camp in Ogden canyon. The Young Republican club was organized. Addresses were delivered by Chief Justice James N. Straup, a candidate for the supreme court nomination; Arthur Woolley, Republican nominee for the Second Utah district representative in congress, and others.

Milton Rawson was named president of the Weber County Young Republican club. Miss Jeanette Morrell was elected vice-president and Mrs. James L. Platt, secretary. The club at its inception had more than 100 charter members.

Several hundred persons gathered in the cool canyon camp and listened to the addresses, prior to participating in a watermelon bust.

STRIKING INVASION

Chief Justice Straup pointed out that, under the American system of government, the courts stand as a bulwark against invasion of constitutional rights by the legislative and executive divisions.

He described as "a most striking invasion of the constitution the attempt by executive order to control more than commerce and more than interstate commerce." This control he referred to as "the regulation of private business, the corner grocery and the barber shop."

"The constitution of this state and of the United States were never more directly involved, more in jeopardy," he asserted in referring to "professors and brain trusters."

"We are trending away from the fundamental precepts that this is a government of law and not a government of men," declared the chief justice. He explained that he does not challenge the integrity of any man but feels alarmed at the trend away from fundamental law.

HUGE BORROWINGS

Mr. Woolley declared that Democracy will die of its own excesses unless the people restrain themselves in their demands.

"The present policy of borrowing at interest upon government bonds that must be paid back and disbursing the moneys in the form of doles or in taking over private debts that will never be enforced against the citizen is the sure road to ruin if it is continued," he asserted.

"Bankruptcy? Repudiation? Inflation? Which shall it be?" he asked. "The next generation will not pay for the debauch of this one. Shall we call a halt upon the reckless waste of government spending? Or shall we go into the nose-dive of inflation? Or shall we frankly repudiate the debt? Or shall we 'let 'er go, Gallagher?'"

"A spoils system has come into being in this government," Mr. Woolley continued, "which represents a challenge to every Republican and especially to every young Republican who must carry on the fight."

The speaker asserted that huge debts which the government is acquiring now may be met by the citizens of the future.

Mr. Woolley quoted figures in support of his contention that America is returning back to the spoils system. Political plums are increasing, he declared. The speaker said that on March 4, 1933, there were 110,000 federal government employees not under civil service. By July 6 of this year, he continued, this number had increased to 199,000.

PINE VIEW DAM JOBS

To get a job as a concrete worker on the Pine View dam project, Mr. Woolley declared, a citizen must have a clearance from some appropriate official in the Democratic party.

He read a letter from R. F. Walker, chief engineer for the federal bureau of reclamation in Denver, copy of which, he said, has been received here and is being followed. It read:

"The secretary of the interior requires that each recommendation submitted to him for appointment to a non-civil service position in the bureau of reclamation be supported by clearance from some appropriate official in the Democratic party organization. Such clearance need not necessarily be in the form of an endorsement or recommendation, a brief statement to the effect that there is no objection to the proposed appointment is all that is needed.

"In order to support a recommendation to be forwarded for your appointment it is requested that you obtain from either the chairman of the Democratic county committee, the chairman of the Democratic state committee, or the chairman of the Democratic central committee in the county or state in which you claim legal residence, a brief statement of clearance as indicated above. The clearance should be mailed by you to the chief engineer, U. S. bureau of reclamation, Denver, Colorado."

George H. Lowe, county chairman, who presided, appointed a committee to meet Don B. Colton, Republican nominee for United States senator, at the train when he arrives here Friday morning from the east to open his campaign. John C. Davis is chairman, with John Geaita and Heber J. Helmer, Jr., assisting him. They will accompany Mr. Colton to Salt Lake City, where a reception is being planned.
